VE Day Celebrations

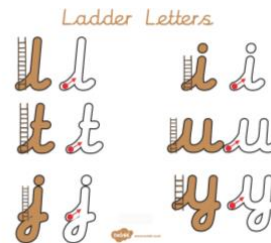

Friday 8th May is a special day to celebrate the end of World War 2. There were lots of brave soldiers who were fighting to keep us safe. Can you make a special bravery medal for a soldier? Here are a few examples. I wonder what yours will look like?

I would love to see a photo of you wearing your special badge.

Handwriting

This week I would like you to practise the tall ladder letters. Remember to start on the '1' and don't move on to the next letter until you can form it correctly

This week you could use paint and have fun finger painting them. If you don't have finger paint you could use shaving foam, custard or anything else you can find in your home. I can't wait to see what you use!

Reading

Remember to keep practising your keywords. How many can you read without sounding them out?

You could write down how many you can read each day and see if you know more by the end of the week!

I saw a beautiful rainbow on one of my daily walks. Would you like to make your very own rainbow?

You will need:

- A packet of skittles
- A plate
- Warm water (Your grown up will need to help you with this part)

Can you make it in a repeating pattern e.g. red, yellow, green, purple, red, yellow, green, purple? I wonder what pattern you will choose!

You can watch a demonstration here but please don't let your child watch the video as it will spoil the surprise.

Enjoy!

Maths

This week I would like you to practise 1 more/1 less

Ask your grown up to drop coins into a cup so you can't see them. You will then need to count the sounds. (This activity will challenge the children to count unseen objects)

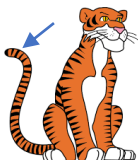

Your grown up will then ask you to predict 'guess' how many there will be if you take one out or add one more. You can then count together to check.

ee

Phonics

Draw the pictures and spell the word. Does it need an 'ee' or an 'ai'?

ai

Challenge

Can you write a sentence to go with each picture?

Don't forget finger spaces, full stops and capital letters
